Comments: Please be advised that I recommend to my patients with electromagnetic sensitivity that they avoid Smart Meters, and that they do not allow the installation of these devices anywhere near their homes or apartments. Some people are extremely sensitive to these devices, and experience significant deterioration of their health when so exposed. I feel that the convenience of the meter readers and the electrical companies should not outweigh the health effects on a segment of our population. In my considered professional medical opinion, the installation of smart meters should be OPTIONAL. Thank you for your attention. Martha M Grout, MD, MD(H) Medical Director, Arizona Center for Advanced Medicine
